InfoCision President and CEO Carl Albright honored with Visionary Award

Akron, Ohio, September 24, 2009 – Last night InfoCision President and CEO Carl Albright was honored with a Visionary Award at the Smart Business Innovation in Business Conference at LaCentre Conference & Banquet Facility in Westlake, Ohio.

Albright was given the award because of his dedication to building a comprehensive employee wellness program at InfoCision. Some of the visionary ideas Albright has brought to InfoCision have been on-site fitness centers, on-site wellness clinics staffed by physicians, the hiring of a full-time wellness coordinator to develop and administer wellness programming, on-site childcare centers, and InfoCision Management Corporate University, which offers training courses to help employees get better at their current jobs and prepare them for advancement within the company.

“I’m truly honored to be recognized with a Visionary Award, but it took the vision and dedication of many people at InfoCision to make these programs work,” said Albright. “I firmly believe that a happier and healthier employee is a better employee. Health and wellness is truly a passion for me, and I simply think that it is the right thing to do for our employees.”
