InfoCision Management Corporation Honored as Health Care Heroes Award Finalist

Akron, Ohio, August 22, 2008 – On Thursday, August 21, 2008, InfoCision Management Corporation was recognized as a finalist in the Employer Achievement category of the Health Care Heroes Award. Presented by Crain's Cleveland Business, the award ceremony was held at the Cleveland Marriott Downtown at Key Center.

Four years ago InfoCision implemented a company-wide, proactive health and wellness program that emphasizes individualized employee care and convenience at a fraction of the cost. The program includes such benefits as on-site fitness centers with cutting-edge equipment; state-of-the-art, on-site medical clinics and on-site physicians; subsidized child care services, on-site day care and dependent day care savings plans; prescription delivery service, plus much more.

“We know from experience that a happier, healthier employee is a better employee – for our company and our clients. Knowing that life’s demands outside of work can often be more challenging than work duties, we understand that we can’t ask our employees to devote their full attention to work if they don’t have the time or tools to attend to health, personal and family responsibilities,” said Carl Albright, president and CEO, InfoCision Management Corporation.

A panel of judges from the health care field selected finalists for the honors from a pool of more than 160 nominations in the following categories: allied health; employer achievement in health care (firms with less than 100 employees); employer achievement in health care (firms of 100 or more employees); advancements in health care by a company or individual; volunteer; nurse; physician; and health care advocate (individual, company or organization).
